

Hi Family,

How are you doing? I'm doing great! I have spent the last few weeks with my instructor building a relationship with her. My instructor is teaching me how to pull in the harness and fine tuning my obedience skills. I'm also learning to target to help find curbs and practicing my collar response. On top of all that, I'm working on how to walk with the special black & white harness on, and boy oh boy do I look good!! Right now, I'm using a special harness handle that looks kind of like a seatbelt, but I will be moving on to the white handle soon. My instructor is always telling me what a good boy I am, and I have to say, I love hearing it! I know I just started on my new path, but I hope you are proud of the progress I am making. Oh, and I have a really cool roommate who I love to play with when I'm not working! The kennel techs are cool too. They give us fun toys and parties when we aren't training. Miss you, but I'm having a great time!!
