Hi Family!

Sorry it has been a while since I last wrote. I have been doing well. Guess who passed his last test?! This guy! Yup, I passed and now I can call myself a guide dog. With all the extra studying I was doing, the test was not as hard. My instructor was so proud of the progress and improvements I have been making. I am working with different instructors so that I can show them how awesome I am too.

There have been two new freshmen classes that came in. They seem very excited to be in college. They like to have rowdy parties sometimes, but we are helping to teach them how to behave in college. Hope you are doing well. Miss you, but I am still having a good time and learning a lot.

Wags & kisses!
